THE BOSTON CHRONICLE

FRIDAY, MAY 18, 1839.

THE ADMINISTRATION

The newspaper attempts to defend the extravagance of the administration of the general government by saying that all the appropriations are made by Congress— What then? Has not a majority in Congress been of the Locofoco stamp; and have they not had control? If they attempt to written one portion of the party by condemning the other if one portion has become as lost to the interests of the country as to demand self-denunciation, would it not be better to release the whole and get better men in their places? But have not appropriations been suggested, prepared, and brought forward as the expedit and desire of the tenant of the White House? In short, has not the Executive held his partisans in the hollow of his hand, and insisted upon their doing his bidding? Yes

The expenditures of the administration of Martin Van Buren have far exceeded that of any other for the same time, and may well cause the people to inquire into the necessity for thus lavishly disposing of dicty money. The Locofoco war, begun without reason, and continued against every dictate of prudence or justice, has swallowed up millions, and the Indians, which it was thought necessary to remove, still inhabit the swamps and hammocks. But the vast expenditures of the government, important as the shatter is to the people, dwindle into utter insignificance, when compared with the vile system of using these funds as "spoils of victory", and embarrassing the business and prosperity of the country in mad experiments, and as a scourge to opponents. But the application of this blasting principle is seen in its worst features, in the careless, miserable manner in which officers of the government, whose duty it was to collect money, have been allowed to march off with as much money as they could lug, at their own will and pleasure. As a specimen of the manner in which the business has been conducted at the Treasury office, let us take the case of Samuel Swartwout, the Collector of New-York, who in the discharge of the duties of his office must have received millions monthly, and yet was allowed to remain in office between two and three years, as shown by official documents, without having executed any bond for the faithful performance of his duties! If the Secretary of the Treasury was ignorant of this fact, he ought to have been removed for incompetency. If he did know it, he should have been kicked from his station for his recklessness and dishonesty.

But the President still keeps him in office, and by so doing, deserves to be considered a party to the transaction. At this rate, the people will soon be forced to the conclusion, that the party in power, among their cardinal principles, have added another, that villainy and dishonesty are a fair offset for partisan services.

In the earlier days of the Government, there was a sense of obligation to the people, on the part of those in office, and neglect was treated as more of a fault, than neglect and dishonesty united are now.

It is high time that the Government was placed into hands disposed to administer it upon the healthful constitutional basis of years long gone by. As a specimen of the times to which we allude, we ask attention to the following correspondence.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,

Feb 10, 1794

Sir: The enclosed letter of the 27th of last month, from the Collector of Tappahannock, relates to a subject equally delicate and disagreeable. It is my duty to add, that bills have been returned protested to the amount of $3,000.

This conduct, though I trust proceeding from no ill motive in the collector, is of a nature so fatal to the punctual collection of the revenue, and at the same time so vitally injurious to the public credit, that I cannot forbear to state it as my opinion that the public good requires the suspending of the officer.

With perfect respect, &c

ALEXANDER HAMILTON.

To the President of the United States

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,

June 16, 1794

Sir: It is with regret that I inform you that another collector has suffered Treasury drafts to return unpaid, which were drawn upon monies reported by him to be in his hands— Abraham Archer, Esq. of Yorktown. Enclosed are letters of apology on the subject. All the drafts which were at first declined were afterwards paid.

I perceive nothing substantially to distinguish this case from that of the Collector of Tappahannock, who was lately superseded on a similar account. Nor can I forbear, however painful the task, to submit it as my opinion in this, as in that case, that the good of the public service requires a displacement of the officer. Punctuality in this respect is too indispensable, not to be made the invariable condition of continuance in office.

With perfect respect, &c

ALEXANDER HAMILTON.

To the President of the United States

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,

Feb 18, 1795

The Secretary of the Treasury has the honor respectfully to submit to the President of the U. States, certain documents by which it appears that John Muir, collector of the district of Vienna, in Maryland, has neglected his duty in failing to collect or to institute in season, suits for the recovery of bonds for duties due in the U. States.

The collector has moreover failed to pay certain drafts drawn on him by the Treasurer of the United States for monies appearing, by reference to the Treasury, to be on hand and in his receipt, he is found to be in the sum pre-dictated as the collectors of York and Tappahannock, who were superseded.

The Secretary is firmly of opinion that this officer should be displaced, and, from inquiry which it has made of Mr. Murray, of the House of Representatives, he is induced to believe that James Fraser is a fit character to succeed to that office. All of which is most respectfully submitted.

With perfect respect, &c

ALEXANDER HAMILTON.

To the President of the United States.

The Refugee Journal is attempting to prove that the administration of Van Buren is as economical as was Adams's. Its arguments are weak and puerile, as usual. For instance, the growth of the country, and the enhanced price of articles necessary to carry on the Government, are not such arguments which will be very convincing to the people that the growth of the country and increase of price should demand so enormous an increase of expenditure as that of from $13,000,000 to 40,000,000! But suppose it did, would not the same argument apply to the expenses of New-York, which it quotes as a specimen of "federal" extravagance. The people must be "fools" and "boobies" indeed, to follow the lead of such a body.

The Journal then goes on to quote from the Norwick Aurora, which paper goes on for the increase of expenditures on the ground that millions went for the Florida War to build a patent office which was burnt to build a fire which was also burnt, &c &c which arguments are about as futile as those of the Journal. Who caused the Florida-war, but the administration, which brought on by a violation of solemn treaties? and who but some paid patines of the administration, as has been more than intimated, burnt up the proof of their own fraud and baseness, by setting fire to the Patent Office and Treasury building. But to say nothing further of the enormous expenditures of the Government, and the cause of them, the host of dishonest and incompetent men appointed to office, and the millions upon millions of dollars of which they have defrauded the Government, is enough to damn the administration to everlasting fame.

We alluded a day or two since to an ingenious office seeker who had applied for the Louisville Post office and offered to abstract all the money and share it equally with Amos Kendall, if he would give him the appointment. We would now call the attention of the Bangor Post office purchasers to this fact, as we think it is a much better bid than any that has been made on change, according to last advices. Don't all speak at once.

We understand that it is contemplated by many of the more reasonable and fair minded of the Van Buren party hereabout, who are disgusted with the County Treasurer and his Democrat, to establish a new paper to be edited by the Sheriff, and to be called after a late periodical in New Hampshire and in consonance with the peculiar talents of the new editor, "The Whip and Spur."

We think our federal opponents would have done better to the General for Governor and to have disengaged Mr. Kent by nominating him to the State Senate.

We think our locofoco opponents would have done much better to have selected the Sheriff instead of Mr. Fairfield for Governor, as the said Sheriff would without doubt outrun any other man in the State.

Caution. A five dollar note of the Bank of Bangor was passed off on a shop boy early on Wednesday morning last.

The above paragraph is from the Salem Gazette. The boy was a lucky dog. We should like to have some of our delinquents commence just as early to pass off the same kind of bills on to us, and continue the business all day.

Maj. Gen'l McCombe and Gen'l Wool of the U. S. army, have arrived in this city from Florida. We understand that they have concluded a treaty with the Seminoles; the exact terms of which have not yet transpired, but the Indians are to keep possession of the "disputed territory". New Orleans Bee, May 6.

Cheap Provisions in Prospect. The Michigan City Gazette states that all the ware houses, and even barns and stables that could be obtained for the purpose in that place, are filled with flour, wheat and corn, and the streets are daily crowded with wagons loaded with grain.

Eastern Lands' Case. The Massachusetts Spy says that the Supreme Judicial Court was occupied at Worcester last week in the trial of an important action, in which Major Simeon Bert of that town was the defendant, on a bond for the payment of a township of Eastern Land. The defence set up, was fraud, and the jury returned a verdict for the defendant. Exemptions have been taken by the plaintiff to the charge of Judge Shaw, for the purpose of obtaining a new trial.

Going a Ducking. "Where were you last night?" "Ducking" "Get any?" "Yes one." "Where?" "In the river" "How?" "Tumbled in."

The Horrors of War. We take the following account of the storming of Constantine from the United Service Journal. "What a pretty picture war is!" The ravines at the foot of the rock were filled with the bodies of those who rolled from above, heaps were seen of the dead, the dying, the wounded, the mutilated. Men, women and children lay in masses, perishing miserably and in agonies: for all others were too occupied to assist them. The sight of men who have been killed fighting, is one which does not inspire any sensibility, for it is nothing more than you are prepared to see, but when women and children are included among the killed, such is not the case, and few can gaze upon them in this state unmoved.

I was witness to a little scene which considerably affected me. Entering a house whose peasants were pased with the numerous bodies of the valiant defenders, we found a door which was locked; the soldiers burst it open, and found that it had been secured by the inmates with boxes and trunks placed against it. A woman had locked herself in with two children, one of them at the breast. She thought herself secure, but we found them all three killed, a shell having entered the ceiling, and burst in the room. The mother and the little boy appeared to have been— she struck at different extremities of the room. We saw it all—embracing each other with the grasp of death, and the train of blood showed that they had been killed.

Horror of War. It is put ten fresh in the memory of the surviving friends of those who rushed in the U. S. ship of war Hornet, the "USS Moira", 17 days ago, that no survivors have appeared to tell her mournful story. The only remains of the vessel found

"TO THE VICTORS BELONG THE SPOILS."

The new Mayor and common council of the City of New York are busily engaged in making arrangements for removing all Whigs holding offices under the corporation. "The general rule," says the N. Y. New Era, "by which the appointments should be made, as we hear openly expressed on all sides, and so unequivocally as to leave no doubt in our minds, is that those who have done the work should receive the rewards."

This is genuine Jackson-Van Buren democracy. The New Hampshire Patriot says, "We respond heartily to the sentiment reward those who have done the work." "This is the only TRUE doctrine, but no party can long sustain itself, which does not to some extent practice it. If the victory belongs to the spoils (which is distinctly avowed,) the greatest share, or in other words, the best offices should be given to those who have contributed most to the victory."

And how do you like this, ye professed disciples of Jefferson? Is not this a new idea? Can any one point us to a sentiment of the kind, in any writings of your professed leader, the father of Democracy? True, they tell us, "the qualifications must be equal to the place." And what does that imply? Why, merely that their efficiency in the elections is the only necessary recommendation. This is proved by the practices of the administration. Is it not most notorious to true, that the man who has been appointed to fill office of the highest importance, have been such as no individual would select to manage his own funds?

being appointed and continued in office, from party considerations, and but very few of them possessing any reputation for pecuniary responsibility.

Look at the case of the late Receiver at Columbus, Miss. W. P. Harris. Every body who has read the papers must recollect the series of letters sent by the Secretary of the Treasury to this public despot, beseeching him, imploring him, begging him, on behalf of his son of poverty, made his appearance. His beard and locks were silvered by age, while his countenance beamed that inward peace, which the world cannot give, nor take away. Father!

said the officer, "shew me a field where I can set my troopers a foraging." "I will presently at you will follow me," replied the good old man.

After leaving the city, about a quarter of an hour's march, they found a fine field of barley.

There is the very thing we want," said the captain. "Have patience for a few minutes," replied his guide, and you shall be satisfied.

They went on, about the distance of a quarter of a league further when they arrived at another field of barley.

The troop immediately dismounted, cut down the grain round it up, and remounted, while the guide looked on. When they were about to depart, the officer said, "Father, you have given your self and us unnecessary trouble, in coming so far; the field we first came to, was much better than this." "Very true, sir," replied the old man, "but it was not mine."

very parts of boats, with the word Honest painted on them, and a "Honest" Captain hat.

At this "le day, we have the misfortune not to have an answer to this question yet to be found; and that a history of the last hours of the vessel may be obtained by those interested. There is one survivor at any rate, a sailor, and a gentleman just returned from the prairie of Illinois has seen him. He found him cultivating the land, upon the twelve mile prairie, near the Kankakee river. He states that he was saved in a boat with five others; that they were drifted ashore upon the island of Cuba, whence, after different changes and fortune, he is found at the West. He states that the Hornet was making for a harbor when she struck on a rock, and that he knows of the escape from the wreck of no person except himself and his five companions.

When our informant asked him why he had never reported himself to the Council aboard as an American, or to the Department at home, he assigned as a reason, that he had no inclination to continue in the naval service, he avoided reporting himself, for fear that if he did, he should be compelled to serve his term out.

That such a man as this sailor was seen by our informant as he states, we have implicit belief that he might have been remaining in his story as possible, but not probable.

At any rate, we stand ready to put any of the friends of any one of the ill-fated crew in a way to obtain more particular information, and shall make every diligent and collate what we possess, and make it public.

RARE CHANCE FOR INVESTMENT.

TO be sold, to close a concern, at Public Auction, to the highest bidder, without reserve.

SAFURDAY, the 8th day of JUNE NEXT, at 10 o'clock A. M. on the premises, the following described REAL and PERSONAL PROPERTY MILL PRIVILEGES and WATER POWER situated in FAIRFIELDED in the County of Somerset and State of Maine, belonging to the Fairfield Land and Mill Association. The real property consists of TWENTY SAW MILLS, with all the necessary Tools in good order and condition for immediate operation.

Also, FIVE CLAPBOARD MACHINES

FIVE SHINGLE MACHINES and TEN LATH

MACHINES, all in good order. The Saw mills, Clapboard, Shingle and Lath Machines have been erected within three years and are believed to be superior to any in the Kennebec River.

Also, SIX SAW MILLS with all the necessary tools complete, now somewhat out of repair, but may be put in operation at a small expense, or the water power may be converted to other manufacturing purposes.

These Mills are situated on the Kennebec river in one of the best farming towns on the river, and within 3 miles of Waterville, at the head of Boat Navigation. Boards may be easily transported by water to Augusta and a market. The shores, eddies, and ponds, for securing logs and other lumber have always been considered of the very first order, and equal if not superior to any in New England, and at all seasons of the year a sufficient supply of water is had for all the Mills and other machinery.

The Dam across the main Kennebec river, being built upon a ledge, is easily kept in repair. Adjoining the Mills is a convenient pond for the safe keeping of logs at all seasons of the year, and also a large and commodious yard sufficient for all the boards and other lumber manufactured at the mills. A house and within a mile of the Mills is a large and well-built Barn, owned by an incorporate company, sufficient to hold all the logs that run to the River.

Also, an ISLAND containing from 18 to 20 acres of good land, separated from the main land by a branch of the Kennebec, and connected with the Mills, on which are three convenient Dwelling Houses one barn and other out buildings, in a good state of repair.

Also, a TAVERN-HOUSE Stable and convenient out-building, situated in the vicinity of the mills now occupied by S. B. Pratt.

Also, Four Dwelling Houses situated near the mills, with large gardens and out-buildings, 1 store, and 1 Blacksmith's shop.

Also, One undivided half of a small Farm containing about 60 acres of good land with a small house on the same.

Also, One acre of land adjoining the Dam, on the East side of the Kennebec River in the town of Clinton.

All said Mills and other Real Estate are situated in the pleasant and flourishing Village, called and known as Kendall's Mills Village.

Also, Sixty-Four Shares in the above mentioned Dam, 30,000 ft of hard wood 1'11" R. 10 to 80 M of SHINGLES, and a number of other articles commonly used and about Mills.

Terms of sale liberal and made known at the time and place of sale.

For further information, reference may be had to the subscriber on the premises.
